Nikola Tesla

He Transformed the Planet in 1896 and It Started Right Here in Niagara Falls, NY

Goat Island, Niagara Falls, NY

Nikola Tesla, Buffalo, NY

Buffalo Courier, July 17, 1896

World's First Hydro-electric AC Generators, 1896

1856 - 1943

In 1884, Nikola Tesla, a 28-year old Serbian immigrant, came to the United States with a dream of engineering the production of alternating current (AC) electricity.

He became a consultant to George Westinghouse (1846-1914) who won the contract to harness the power of Niagara Falls to produce AC hydro-electricity.

The Westinghouse-Tesla team engineered a water tunnel 2-miles long and 160-feet deep from the Rapids to the Niagara River just past the American Falls. Some 300,000 tons of earth were removed; 20 million bricks were used to line the tunnel.

When completed, the Adams Power Houses accommodated ten 5000-Hp Tesla hydro-generators capable of delivering AC electricity. On November 15, 1896, for the first time ever, the long distance transmission of alternating current on the planet was achieved from Niagara Falls to Buffalo, NY some 23-miles away.

Ultimately, the entire civilization of the planet adopted AC transmission. Nikola Tesla's achievement was described in 1896 by the Buffalo Enquirer, the city newspaper, as the "Journey of God's own Lightning to the employ of all mankind."
